BRANDON AND THE PEG BREAK EVEN

In Double Header Yesterday Maroons
Take the Matinee Performance.
White Hill Maroons' Angie Anna
the Evening Event—Score in Each Case 4 to 2.

Winipeg, May 8.—The Winipeg and Brandon teams broke even in a double header today, the Maroons taking the first contest by score of 4 to 2 and the Angels the second by the same count. Neither contest was productive of very brilliant ball but the even nature of the scores always kept it interesting. The Maroons won the first game by hitting Big Chief Roy hard and opportunely while Cummings, a new recruit, held the visitors safe with the assistance of good pitching.

—The visitors won the second game
by mixing up two home runs with their other hits, through Krueger getting a run off Roy. The growth left in the winning tally. Thats twisted good ball for Bill Morrisows coach.

The scores—

LADIES' SAND CORPORATION GIFT.

On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week the towels which are to be sent as a Coronation gift for Queen Mary, will be on exhibition at T. S. Thompson's and at the Blue Ice room.

It is a well known fact that Her Majesty the Queen takes a deep interest in promoting arts and handicrafts, consequently the members of the Canadian Handicrafts guild decided to give Her Majesty specimens of the handicraft of her Canadian subjects.

Every branch of the guild in Canada is sending a gift. Edmonton's contribution is a set of unique towels, made by the Huguenin-Canadians at Mundre. These are of hand-woven linen, decorated with artistic borders of stars and stars-etch work. Each

These things are assured. They are not speculation. They are begun. The University alone made them necessary. Do you know how to take advantage of these great factors?

The selection of a home site demands the profoundest thought. When you have pictured the style of home you want you don't attempt to design it. You consult a mind trained to do it for you. The location of that dream home of yours is of far greater importance than the structure itself. You cannot build artistically on unsightly ground. A castle in a hollow would be a strange spectacle. Let the common sense that guides you in consulting an architect prompt you now.

The men who chose the University Site chose after great deliberation. Their judgment should guide you. Build your home on equally beautiful ground near the University. The University, in all University Cities, being the artistic centre, is the nucleus of the most fashionable and exclusive residences. This is inevitable.

From this inducement you are securing property that is opposite the city's great park, Laurier. The New Auto Drive will encircle the property. Are these brief facts worth considering or not? Name any university in the world where you can secure such lots as we offer at such figures.

We will publish a series of articles on this page which will show WHY the Edmonton Portland Cement Company, Limited, presents to the public the most attractive investment that has been made possible by the remarkable development of Western Canada. Every man or woman who has from $100 to $25,000 which he would like to put into an investment that should double in value in two years, pay a 40 per cent dividend indefinitely and become Edmonton's most important industrial institution, should read every one of the articles.

The enthusiasm and interest with which the Edmonton Portland Cement Company has been received by the people of Edmonton has no parallel in the history of this city. Within three days after the books of the Company were opened nearly one hundred thousand dollars of its stock was subscribed for. And there has been a reason for this. Everyone knows that Portland Cement is a staple as sure in value as wheat. The demand for Portland Cement has increased so enormously in past 20 years, that the development of the Cement industry stands without a precedent in the industrial history of the world. The production of Portland Cement in America has increased TWENTY-TWO THOUSAND per cent., and at that time SIX HUNDRED MILLION dollars was invested in the Cement industry in the United States alone, and there has been a cement famine from the introduction of Portland Cement to today.

There is not the slightest danger of over-production in the Cement Industry. Even if the materials or its manufacture could be easily found, the construction work on the American Continent would afford a ready market for the output of any possible increase in the number of cement mills.

The condition of the Cement market is peculiar. A few years ago Portland Cement, which was usually called hydraulic Cement, was used mainly in the construction of bridges, aqueducts, foundations and for paving purposes. In the past twenty years its use has been extended to every possible purpose of construction for which brick, stone and steel are used. Not only is it used in enormous quantities for paving purposes and as the basis of reinforced concrete construction, but also for piling, tanks, bridges, roofs, flooring, and even certain types of boats and barges.

Such vast engineering undertakings as tunnels, subways, irrigation projects, and finally the Panama Canal, which will consume 3,000,000 barrels of Portland Cement, have only been made possible by this material.

In addition to these great general purposes, Portland Cement has created special fields for its own use. The monolithic house is a twentieth century product made of concrete. Tree preservation has been made a modern science by the use of Portland Cement. Ornamental concrete has made possible the decoration of buildings, parks, streets, boulevards, lawns and public and private grounds, that would be impossible without it. And finally the "one bag consumer" has created a market for Portland Cement that was never dreamed of in the early days of its manufacture. The process of making concrete from Portland Cement is within the reach of any one. And the farmer has found that concrete nest eggs are more economical and lasting than procelein, that concrete hens' nests offer no harbor for insect pests and are sanitary beside. He has found, too, that he may have well-looking door steps, snow white sidewalks, rat-proof corn cribs, sanitary cow sheds, and a hundred other things practical and attractive, all made by his own hand from Portland Cement. The result is that the market for Portland Cement has extended itself from the great institutions of construction to every cross roads store on the American Continent, and it has become as staple a commodity as sugar or wheat.

The success of a Portland Cement plants depends upon only one consideration and that is accessible materials. And the search for these materials has gone on until practically the whole American continent has been prospected. It is necessary not only to find a workable deposit of marl or lime-rock from which the carbonate of lime may be derived, but an immediately adjacent bed of clay, shale or slate also, from which the silica may be obtained. For it takes both lime and silica to make Portland Cement. These materials, marl or lime rock and clay, shale or slate, have no geological association whatever. It is only by chance that they are ever found near together. The result is that many of the Cement mills are obliged to ship one or both of its materials a long distance by rail. The competing plant nearest to Edmonton ships its lime rock 65 miles and its shale 28 miles to the factory. A Cement mill is now proposed at Winnipeg which will ship one of its materials across the Continent.

The materials owned by the Edmonton Portland Cement Company are only five miles apart and both on the main line of a great railroad system. It can safely be asserted that no cement mill in America has ever entered this great industry under more favorable circumstances. And this is why the Edmonton Portland Cement Company can produce Portland Cement for 78 cents a barrel and sell its entire output at $3.00 a barrel without ever going outside the Edmonton market.

The remarkable advantages offered by the properties of the Edmonton Portland Cement Company make its low cost of manufacture possible. And the disadvantages of competing plants, together with high freight rates, fix the market price. And all of this is the reason why the Edmonton Portland Cement Company should be able to pay a 40 per cent. dividend on its stock and why its shares should go to $200 within the first year of the operation of the plant.
